When the man was giv- prohibiting Sunday exhibitions. ing his pedigree to the desk sergeant, Patrolman Murphy listened intently tody on a writ of habeas corpus when and heard the following responses to Supreme Court Justice Morschauer, questions asked:

Name? Patrick Murphy. Birthplace? Ireland.

Address? Bridgeport, Conn. When the stranger had finished answering the questions asked him, the sergeant mentioned the officer's name who had made the arrest.

"Murphy? Tim Murphy?" murhe's my brother."

"Like -- I am," retorted the patrolman. "What do you mean? I never saw you before."

After the Bridgeporter had been led off to a cell, charged with a trivial offense, "Paddy" Murphy, attache at the Strand Theatre and a brother of Patrolman Murphy, happened along. day shall be observed and is the sole He consented to take a look at his judge of acts proper to be prohibited. namesake and immediately recogniz- The opinion set forth: ed him as a cousin, not only of his, but also of the officer who had made the

The local "Paddy" said that he had come across in the same boat with the Bridgeport "Paddy," thirty or more years ago, but had not seen him since. Patrolman Murphy had not seen the Bridgeporter in twenty-seven years. At that time the cousin was in his 'teens, while now he is a stalwart fellow with a heavy black mustache, which accounted for his failure to recognize

Ever since coming to this country, the Bridgeport Murphy said, he had worked in that city, now having charge of a large number of men there. Judge Brophy suspended sentence, and after a cordial leavetaking between him and his local cousins, he left town for Bridgeport, declaring that he had fully forgiven his Portchester cousin for arresting him.

It seems that the Bridgeporter really has a brother named "Tim" who is employed in Greenwich, and it was to him he referred when he declared. in Patrolman Murphy's presence, that "Tim" Murphy was his brother. Even the brother in Greenwich had not seen him in many years, so the man's arrest by Patrolman "Tim" resulted in quite a family reunion.

Prisoners' Statements

Aren't Always Reliable

Toerzburg, Transylvania, Nov. 24.-Prisoners of war being not unwilling to please their captors, their statements must be taken with a large pinch of salt. Though there be no officer of the enemy present, the prisoner of war cannot be sure that his statements do not become known to the powers into whose hands the fortune of war has placed him.

A correspondent was able to interview here to-day two score Rumanian officers and men who had fallen into captivity near Rucar, some twenty miles south of here. No Central Power officer was within earshot.

One of the first men questioned was a Rumanian Jew, a man of some education and standing. He had served as a private. Unblushingly he said that he had looked for a chance to surrender. Questioned why, the man almost flew into a rage. He could not see why a Jew should fight for a government which in times of peace gave him no vote and no part in the affairs of his country. He hoped that the Central troops would get to Bucharest in a few days and hang them all, especially Bratianu and Take Jonescu who had so needlessly i:1volved the country in war. Six other Jews were a little timid in their expressions but seemed to heartily agree with their spokesman.

Captured officers are non-interviewable, as a rule, the code, as well as tact, forbids that they be questioned, but one of them, a tall handsome fellow of about twenty-five, gave it as his opinion that the war was "une sale affaire"-a dirty business.

RICHARD CROKER IS SEVENTY-THREE TODAY

Richard Croker, former chief of Tammany Hall and one of the most picturesque figures in American politics was born seventy-three years ago to-day at Black Rock, Ireland. After retiring from the leadership of "the vigwam" Mr. Croker went to England and bought a fine estate at Wantage, but the English climate didn't agree with him, so he returned to his native Ireland, which he had abandoned for America when two years old. Glencairne, his Irish estate, is an abode of magnificence, but even more important than the villa are the stables and barns, provided for his string of blooded race horses. Although the son of an Irish farmer, Richard Croker came of a family of considerable prominence in Ireland. which boasts an ancient coat of arms bearing the motto "Deus alit eos" (God feeds them"). Young Richard received his education principally in the streets of New York, and he won his first political honors by the power of his bare fists.

SUNDAY MOVIES ILLEGAL STATE COURT DECIDES

to his contention that he should be discharged because the phrase in the statute, "or other public sports, exercises or shows," does not apply to indoor performances. Regarding this the opinion says:

"The words 'or other public sports, exercises or shows' are presumed to have been used by the legislature in their ordinary and familiar sense and meaning, and are to be so understood and construed. Acts relating to the observance of the Sabbath are remedial statutes and are to be construed liberally in respect to the mischlefs sought to be remedled.

"The vital question to be decided upon this appeal is: 'What did the legislature mean when it wrote into the statute relating to the observance of Sunday, following the prohibition against shooting, hunting, fishing, horse-racing, gaming,' the words 'or other public sports, exercises or shows?' Did it intend to prohibit exhibitions in the nature of the ordinary moving picture show? It would seem clear that the answer to that question must be in the affirmative."

Favors More Employers.

The opinion also states that the trend of recent legislation has been to protect, so far as possible, the right of employes to rest on Sunday, ture theatres in the state. While the court proceedings were instituted to test the legality of an Albany city ordinance, to-day's decision applies to all motion picture theden by local ordinances in others, and in still others the matter has been left to the discretion of the police.

New York Preacher Enumerates the List Which Plague Young Men.

New York, Nov. 24-The comparative temptations that New York holds out to young women and to young men have just formed the subject of a symposium by John Wanamaker, Nicholas Murray Butler, president of the Columbia University; Jacob H. last. Schiff and others at St. Andrew's Methodist church.

In response to inquiries sent out by the pastor, the Rev. Fred Winslow Adams, the following views were sent. They were heard with deep attention -and some blushes-by the young people of the congregation: Chief Temptation for Young Men
